Johns Hopkins University offers two customizable degrees for individuals who want a comprehensive understanding of the intersection between environmental engineering and public health.

9 MONTHS TO 1.5 YEARS | FULL-TIME | ONSITE

Our Programs

Master of Science in Engineering (MSE)
Geography & Environmental Engineering
Open to applicants with a degree from an ABET-accredited program in engineering or the sciences

Master of Science (MS)
Geography & Environmental Engineering
Open to applicants with a background in engineering, math, or science, but not from an ABET-accredited program

DESIGN A PROGRAM TO MATCH YOUR INTERESTS

Choose from 5 concentrations or design your own degree
- Contaminate Fate and Transport
- Environmental Process Engineering
- Water Resources Engineering
- Environmental Management and Economics
- Data Science and Analytics

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

Funding assistance is available through the department, and we have a comprehensive funding guide to help applicants identify opportunities for tuition and living support.

WWW.EHE.JHU.EDU | HOPKINS_EHE@JHU.EDU