C PHIT Newsletter Fall 2021

Highlighting Our Recent Publications!

This issue focuses on the Population Health (PH) field and its intersectional role in ensuring equity in health care delivery, health disparities, social determinants of health, and implementation of best practices in health systems and populations.

Cover Story:

Development of Measurable Criteria to Identify and Prioritize Patients with Social Determinants of Health in Primary Care Settings

This paper aims to (1) create a consultation tool for identifying and prioritizing patients with social determinants of health in primary care settings, and (2) compare this tool with clinical and administrative criteria, using their sensitivity and specificity.

Assessing the Impact of Social Health and Neighborhood Determinants on Neighborhood Health Management

This study evaluates individual- and community-level needs of housing (one of the SDH domains) in three different urban areas and explores the level of community resilience toward social determinants of health.

Social and Behavioral Variability in the Electronic Health Record: A Path Forward to Increase Equity

This paper presents a method to quantify variability in EHR data using Statistical Process Control (SPC) charts, facilitating the comparison of health disparities in the EHR and other health data.

C PHIT News!

Don’t miss our C PHIT Center Coordinator, held for one month each quarter!

Explore the C PHIT website.